

Implementation & Client Services Manager

Palo Alto, California

Do you want the chance to exhibit your technical and communication skills within an exciting expanding business?

The right person for the job will grasp the major changes that are taking place in the retargeting online advertising market. New ways to provide highly efficient targeted ads are quickly changing the rules of the game.

Thanks to a revolutionizing retargeting technology, Criteo is one of the fastest growing players in the online advertising industry. We are a profitable start-up backed by Index Ventures and have a portfolio of more than 200 clients.

We are currently experiencing tremendous growth and we are seeking a talented person to come on board and add value to our business.

Job Description:

- Work with cross functional teams on seamless design and implementation for highly scalable dynamic ad display campaigns
- Communicate effectively and clearly to our prized clients
- Responsible and have ownership for end to end solutions
- Develop technical expertise in next generation ecommerce advertising platforms
- Will work in a fast paced innovative environment and be cool under pressure
- Roll up your sleeves and actively participate in the development of our business by providing the best solution at the right time

Requirements:

- Degree in computer science or technology related degree
- Early adopter to technology and passion and interest in global ecommerce markets
- Basic knowledge in the following software languages: HTML, JavaScript, SQL, XML.
- Experience in supporting multiple online advertising integration projects at the same time
- Strong communication experience written and oral
- Experience with data analysis and solution consultation

You can't miss the opportunity we offer you to develop your career. Join us to contribute to one of the latest disrupting technologies in online technology.

We work hard, play hard, and we all share the same passion for e-commerce, advertising, and technology. Our values are teamwork, openness, technical innovation, and results-orientated thinking. The Criteo corporate culture is all about attracting and retaining the best talent.

This job is a great opportunity for a self-motivated, proven business closer, sales professional with an excellent track record for hitting targets. Our compensation packages are competitive and we aim to reward excellence, resulting in fantastic opportunities for the right candidate.

If you are in search of an opportunity to be a part of a profitable and growing startup that fosters innovation and creativity, while delivering cutting edge advertising technologies, then email your resume to p.shintri@criteo.com today.

Criteo is an Equal Opportunity Employer