

Datacenter Technician
New York City

Are you a Techie looking for a great opportunity to work with cutting edge technologies in a datacenter production environment?

The right person for the job will have the opportunity to grasp the major changes that are taking place in the retargeting online advertising market. New ways to provide highly efficient targeted ads are quickly changing the rules of the game.

Thanks to a revolutionizing retargeting technology, Criteo is one of the fastest growing players in the online advertising Industry. We are a profitable start-up backed by Index Ventures and have a portfolio that has grown over 1000% in the last 1-year. We are currently experiencing tremendous growth and we are seeking a talented Datacenter Administrator to come on board and add value to our business.

The responsibilities will include:

- In charge of onsite interventions in the datacenter
- In charge of scheduled maintenance operations (OS patches, new code deployment, upgrades) of all production sites (Europe and US).
- Responsible for proactively improving production maintenance (including backups, archiving)

The ideal person will have the following experience:

- Good knowledge of Windows and Linux servers
- Good knowledge of networking concepts: routing, firewalls, DNS, LAN, DHCP
- Good knowledge of web servers (especially IIS)
- Good knowledge of the various components of an internet production environment
- Good scripting skills
- Ability to troubleshoot servers' hardware issues.

We work hard, play hard, and we all share the same passion for e-commerce, advertising, and technology. Our values are teamwork, openness, technical innovation, and results-orientated thinking. The Criteo corporate culture is all about attracting and retaining the best talent. This job is a great opportunity for a self-motivated, proven business closer, sales professional with an excellent track record for hitting targets. Our compensation packages are competitive and we aim to reward excellence, resulting in fantastic opportunities for the right candidate.

If you are in search of an opportunity to be a part of a profitable and growing startup that fosters innovation and creativity, while delivering cutting edge advertising technologies, then email your resume to p.shintri@criteo.com today.

Criteo is an Equal Opportunity Employer